

harmonic distortion products for actual bass notes, and the end result is never truly convincing.

(The tighter bunching of the contour curves at the lowest frequencies also leads to something subwoofer owners will recognise: small changes in sub level adjustment lead to significant changes in perceived output loudness. )