

These are just suggestions:

- use 3/4" plywood
- you want holes in the braces, that way you don't have to make up for the lost volume
- wood dowels also work well for bracing if you run out of space around the drivers.
- some people just take scrap pieces, and fit them in instead of dedicated boards for bracing.
- keeping the bracing slightly off the center line is said to help resonances

