

Transformers

Torroidal Power

Antek AN 3T-325 With Cover/pot For high power tube amp

Antek torroidal cover/pot

Antek An-1220 (would be good for stereo chip amp)

Hammond 182M12 (Would be good for stereo chip amp)

Hammond 182P22 (would be good for moderate power stereo discrete solid state).

Pair crovisa224320 (these are meant for 230V primary, they will work with 120V, but will only produce 2x12V output)

EI High Power

Large heater transformer (don't recall if it's 6.3 or 12.6) Was going to use for an OTL amp.

Unknown vintage pull with multiple secondaries. Probably around 250VA.

Unknown vintage pull with multiple secondaries. Probably around 240VA. (425V CT plate winding).

Hammond 272JX

Power transformer from the Fisher TA-600

Pair of hammond 167H200. I split the center tap for dual 100V secondaries. Was going to use for circlotron OTL monoblocks.

Pair of Hammond 167U6. Was going to use as the heater transformers for the circlotron OTL monoblocks.

2 unknown Hammonds (approx 100VA).

Horizontal mount endbells (will fit the 272JX or similar size transformer)

EI Low Power

Pair hammond 166C50

Unknown 150V plate + heater winding (not sure if 6.3 or 12.6)

Hammond 260A

Hammond 162H24

Pair unknown vintage pulls (6.3V + 65V secondaries)

Push Pull Output

Pair Sansui 410-5234B (from the sansui 1000A receiver)

Pair Danbury Electronics DM53-DB425 (these have impressive HF response)

Pair unknown vintage pulls (5-10W)

Pair unknown vintage pulls (15-20W)

Antek AT-040L Potted torroidal (good LF, but not-so-good HF, would work well for a high power bass guitar amplifier OPT)

Single Ended Output

Single One Electron UBT-1

Pair Ripley D7895 (3.5k primary; 10-15 watts)

Chokes

Pair Hammond 158Q

Pair Hammond 158T

single unknown vintage pull
