

We need a flying lead from c402 D to? and does it need a component fitted between for this test?

